

The DIY* Planner:

A Unique Time Management, Organization and Goal-Setting Workshop for High School Girls

School planners are typically ugly and uninspiring. But they don't have to be.

Every girl learns differently, which means every girl organizes differently, too.

Why not personalize your school planner, so it is just right for you!?

Imagine a high school planner that:

- Has interchangeable pages that can be reorganized as needs change
- Incorporates removable components like a dry erase doodle page, dividers, and folders
- Is artful and reflects a girl's creativity

This workshop was inspired by my client Mary, who transformed her junior year with her DIY planner (see pic). Last year she created this multi-use planner designed specifically for her unique needs, including a pocket for completed homework (most planners neglect this crucial component). Plus, the beautifully collaged cover created a sense of ownership and fun. Mary is so sold on her DIY planner that she's coming to the workshop this year to plan for her senior year. We'll for SURE build in a section for college apps!

During this 3-hour workshop, high school girls will:

- Reflect on their strengths and trouble spots with time management & organization
- Set specific goals for a successful school year
- Collage a planner cover that expresses their unique identity and goals
- Create a planner with personalized time management & organization components

Girls will walk away with a ready-to-use personalized planner and concrete strategies for how to organize for success during the upcoming school year.

To Register:

- DATE: Wednesday, August 18, 2010
- TIME: 9:30am-12:30pm or 2-5pm
- LOCATION: InterPlayce, 2273 Telegraph Ave, Oakland 94612
- FEE: $150 via check or Paypal advance payment required to reserve spot
- REGISTRATION: Email
Gretchen.wegner@gmail.com

Workshop Leader:

Gretchen Wegner, M.Ed is a sought-after academic and writing coach who helps teens and adults refine academic skills and complete projects without sacrificing their creative spirits. Her clients include teens with learning disabilities, graduate students writing dissertations and creative entrepreneurs. Read more at www.gretchenwegner.com.

